A Letter of Recommendation for Clipper Young

Dear CBDCE Board of Directors Search Committee,

I am writing to provide my strong recommendation for Dr. Clipper Young to be selected as a director on the CBDCE Board. Dr. Young and I are part of the Diabetes Research Education and Self-Management (DREAM) team at Touro University California Diabetes Services. We actively work together to provide diabetes and health-related services in Solano County, California.

Dr. Clipper Young is one of the most dedicated Certified Diabetes Care and Education Specialists I have ever had the privilege to work with. Dr. Young is not only knowledgeable in current diabetes treatment to provide the best practices for his patients, he is also generous in sharing that knowledge with his colleagues. He has published many peer-reviewed journal articles, received numerous leadership and service awards and volunteered with multiple diabetes, health or pharmacist-related organizations. Dr. Young is consistently looking for opportunities to serve, to learn and is a great team player who never fails to deliver what he promised.

Working together as team members, I have first-hand experienced working regularly with Dr. Young on multiple community and academic projects. He is excellent at locating resources to work on projects independently but also inviting those he feels are best for the tasks to join when it is appropriate. He appreciates and values the collaboration between colleagues from different disciplines. The most memorable experiences I have working with Dr. Young is when he believed in my help when I was uncertain myself. He is also actively building the skills of his team. He has created opportunities to help his teammates grow and gain experiences - such as, creating posters at national conferences or writing a chapter together for a book. He is very patient in answering my questions, and with his vast experiences in many aspects related to diabetes care. He is a great role model for any CDCES.

Not only is Dr. Young devoted to serve his patients, to provide for the community and to collaborate with his colleagues, but he has also committed his career to conducting research, teaching and precepting medical students. His ready-to-serve attitude is evident.

Dr. Clipper Young is a well-rounded, respected, and organized pharmacist, who chose diabetes care, treatment, research, and education as his focus of practice. He will be a great addition to the CBDCE Board of Directors, and I am confident that his dedication will shine through to positively affect all CDCES's.

Sincerely,

Anne Lee
